

Who Tells Our Story, Shapes Our Destiny is the National REACH Coalition's multi-year effort to celebrate Black, Indigenous People of Color (BIPOC) telling their stories and reclaiming their right to shape their destiny. In furtherance of this cause, please join the National REACH Coalition in collaboration with the Arizona Telemedicine Program, Southwest Telehealth Resource Center, National COVID-19 Resiliency Network, and the Mel and Enid College of Public Health for our Third annual

DIGITAL STORYTELLING SCREENING

All are welcome to attend this screening where we will view Digital Stories created by BIPOC community members from across the country. These short stories are personal narratives of various life events that have impacted and influenced their lives. There will also be a Q & A session after the screening.
