

'Who Tells Our Story, Shapes Our Destiny' is the National REACH Coalition's multi-year effort to celebrate Black, Indigenous People of Color (BIPOC) telling their stories and reclaiming their right to shape their destiny. In furtherance of this cause, please join the National REACH Coalition and StoryCenter in collaboration with the Arizona Telemedicine Program, Southwest Telehealth Resource Center, National COVID-19 Resiliency Network, Bronx Health REACH, the Healthy Flint Research Coordinating Center, and the Mel and Enid College of Public Health for our second annual

DIGITAL STORYTELLING SCREENING

All are welcome to attend this webinar where we will view digital stories completed by community members from across the country. These short stories are personal narratives that describe how various life events have impacted and influenced their lives. There will also be a Q & A session after the screening.

THURSDAY, JUNE 30TH
