HIV Testing and Prevention: How Arizona Health Workers Can Help End the Epidemic

Learning Objectives:

1. Describe the HIV epidemic on national and local levels.
2. Discuss the importance of early HIV testing and treatment.
3. Review biomedical HIV prevention treatment strategies (PEP & PrEP).

Alyssa Guido has served as the Program Director for the Arizona AIDS Education and Training Center, a local partner of the Pacific AIDS Education and Training Center, since July 2010. Alyssa discovered her passion for HIV education and advocacy as a Peace Corps Volunteer in Zambia from 2004 - 2006. After her service in Zambia, she coordinated an overseas staff training program at Peace Corps Headquarters for two years and before returning to school to get her master's in public health. She completed her MPH at the University of Arizona, College of Public Health in 2010. As Arizona AETC Program Director, Alyssa managed the implementation of a targeted HIV screening program in two emergency departments in Tucson, Arizona. Alyssa's current AETC work is focused on PrEP and PEP program development and education about the 4th generation HIV testing algorithm.
